

TWISTER BREAKS HAVOC IN MUSCATINE AREA

Norman Baker

(HIMSELF)

"Hello Folks"

SIXTEEN YEARS AGO TODAY the following news item appeared in the Chicago paper—DENVER, Colo.—"T. L. Menden, Colorado, dairy commissioner, volunteers to swallow or otherwise take into his system the germs of animal tuberculosis to prove that Dr. Koch's theory that the disease in cows and other animals is not communicable to humans."

Dr. Koch was right—no doctor or set of doctors has to this day proven positively that the bovine T. B. germ is transferable to human beings—the best that has been said is that Dr. Mayo has given the matter much thought and study and that "He BELIEVES it is"—Mayo's believing is not proof—and you and I can believe anything—but to prove it is ANOTHER THING.

HURRAH FOR LABOR—I see in the Free Press columns that the Sioux City Trades and Labor Assembly has endorsed a state wide movement to ask Governor Turner to investigate the milk test or other test instead of the tuberculosis test as now given—maybe the governor will act now—while he sits as governor he permitted troops to be ordered out against Iowa farmers to force them into a worthless test—now with the farmers against him—they will defeat him and with labor getting on his coat tail—HE WILL SIT UP AND LISTEN—he had better or he will never see the governor's chair again—labor and farmers are RIGHT—I'm for them 100 percent, even though some of the high-brows call me a radical—just the same they have not dared to come out openly in print and tear down my preaching for a one farm organization or the milk test because they know I AM RIGHT and the farmer wants them—when farmers get as smart as labor THEY WILL WIN—to be that smart—kick out all organizations and JOIN ONE FARM ORGANIZATION—perhaps a good name would be the FARM FEDERATION OF AMERICA—Wall street don't like that, neither does some other farm orders that have taken farmers' money for years and never given him anything in return.

MY EARS BURN—maybe that's a sign somebody's talking about me—but it is Mr. Coffey, editor at Wellman, Iowa, who refused to come up on the platform and debate his grievances last Saturday at Wellman—today I believe is the day his paper comes out—It's a weekly and I bet he is BURNING ME UP with printer's ink—just the same he had a chance to tell his story to his townspeople face to face and he would not accept it—anyone can sit in an editor's office and write things about people—but every one CANNOT STAND UP IN THE LIGHT AND FACE ARGUMENTS—in public. I bet the farmers do not forget that Duran fellow—believe that's how he spells his name—you know farmers—the fellow that pulled the speaking platform away—if you see him ask him if Coffey told him to do it, or if he really used his head long enough to think of it himself—he would starve to death perhaps—if you farmers out there near Wellman refused to sell your cattle to him—he didn't want you to hear a speaker of your choice—then maybe he is not worthy of your business—he just wanted to dictate to you farmers—that's all—DIDN'T DO 'ER—DID HE?

EMMA WAHL—believe that's how she spelled her name—maybe WAHL—a Muscatine girl—went to school with her—she afterwards married and went to Chicago—she went on a boat excursion trip—the EASTLAND—it turned over in Chicago river and she was lost so I understood—lost because all the people scrambled to one side of the boat—overloaded it and many lost their lives—foolish engineers designed that boat—or foolish boatmen allowed an overload—that was about 18 years ago.

Baker Tells Farmers Ways to Secure Aid

BIG SUM WILL BE SOUGHT TO AID JOBLESS

Record Contributions To Charity To Be Asked in Fall

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
WASHINGTON—(INS)—Record-breaking contributions for organized charity will be sought this fall to prevent distress during the winter, under plans being drafted today by the president's committee on unemployment relief.

Preparatory to making this call upon the generosity of the American people, government statisticians are engaged in the first comprehensive survey of expenditures for relief purposes during the past year.

The figures, which will be presented to the committee headed by Walter S. Gifford, may also be available for President Hoover when demands are made in congress for federal appropriations. The figures will show, in the opinion of some government officials, that private contributions far exceed any amount congress is likely to provide.

The charity bill of the nation, even in prosperous years, reaches staggering proportions.

An authority quoted by officials of the Red Cross placed the total of benefactions during 1929 at the huge total of $2,450,720,000.

Embraced in this figure is $279,760,000 for personal charity and $278,710,000 for organized charity.

OTTUMWA MAN IS CANDIDATE

Leonard Simmer Will Run for Lieutenant Governor of Iowa

LENOX, Ia.—(INS)—Iowa's lone political race which promises to be a free-for-all in 1931 is derailing today with the first candidate in the field. He is Leonard Simmer of Ottumwa who in a speech to farmers here Thursday announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as lieutenant governor of Iowa.

Simmer, seeking the position now held by Arch MacFarlane of Waterloo, Ia., declared he will seek the nomination on a platform for lower governmental expenses, tax reduction and a gross income tax with the elimination of mandatory tax levies imposed on counties.

The first candidate for the nomination is a lawyer. Last winter Simmer was Republican floor leader in the House of Representatives and stood out prominently in every major debate.

He is the author of the law which permits cities and towns to hold special elections to determine whether public utilities, municipally owned, shall be constructed and paid for from the earnings.

Simmer also instigated the suit against the governor of Iowa and the secretary of state which resulted in the supreme court finding the $300,000,000 road bond constitutional amendment unconstitutional last spring.

His announcement of his candidacy drew considerable interest since it came as somewhat of a surprise.

Urges Forming of One Group in His Talk At Washington

WASHINGTON, Ia.—(Special)—"Farm relief can come only through efforts of the farmer," Norman Baker, Muscatine, famous as a farm lecturer and for his enterprises in the Pearl City, outstanding of which are radio station K-TNT and the cancer cure, told an audience numbering about 3,500 persons at the Dutch Creek fair here Thursday. Doubtless a larger crowd would have heard his address had it not been for rains during the morning and continued threatening skies in the afternoon.

Mr. Baker spoke mostly on farm relief and told his hearers how this matter hinged upon politics of the state. The farmers can control a mighty power in political elections by the formation of a single farm organization, he said.

The speaker also touched upon the present difficulties in Cedar county regarding the Iowa compulsory bovine T. B. testing law and his coming half million dollar suit for damages against the American Medical association which is scheduled for a hearing at Davenport next month.

Mr. Baker declared that the forming of one farm organization would bring the farmers together so they could control the situation regarding relief for the farmers.

Turner Is Mentioned
Previous to Mr. Baker's talk, another speaker announced that he believed Dan Turner, present governor of Iowa, would make good material for the office at the 1932 election.

The speaker said that he had received well by the audience and when the Muscatine man took the platform and declared that in his opinion Gov. Turner would not be the next chief executive of the state, the statement was met with a hearty response from his listeners.

Mr. Baker declared that during past political campaigns too many promises had been made by the office seekers and too few kept after elections. The useless spending of the taxpayers' money was denounced by the speaker.

The speaker said that had he the power to cause the farmers to unite into one organization, he would see the rural residents turn the tables on Wall street and other capitalists and groups in the city and realize the potential power which

Held for Kidnaping Woman and Three Children

CLARKSBURG, W. Va.—(INS)—Although visibly nervous and distraught, Cornelius C. Pierson, alias Harry F. Powers, maintained a tight-lipped silence today when he was taken to a blood-spattered, evil-smelling garage at quiet Dell, near here and questioned regarding the disappearance of Mrs. Asta Buivik Eicher from her home at Park Ridge, Ill.

PARK RIDGE, Ill.—(INS)—Troubles arising from Cornelius Pierson's practice of writing love letters piled up for him today.

Illinois officers went to Clarksburg, W. Va., where he has been living and attempted to secure his return to this state to answer charges of kidnaping Mrs. Asta Eicher and her three children. Postal authorities were expected to lodge charges of misusing the mails against him.

Mayor William A. McKee, Park Ridge, took the investigation into his own hands from the chief of police. He said he doubted if Pierson, also known as Harry S. Powers, would waive extradition.

Warrants charging kidnaping and manslaughter had been sworn out for Pierson, but Thursday a new warrant accusing Pierson of kidnaping was secured.

The warrant was forwarded to Gov. Louis L. Emerson with a request for an extradition warrant.

Dispatches to local authorities from Clarksburg indicated that he posed as a millionaire, with oil wells, hundreds of acres of farm lands, and valuable stocks, four letters, sealed and ready for mailing, were

Cannon Employee Will Not Answer Probers

BROKER FREED BY KIDNAPERS

NEW YORK—(INS)—Charles M. Rosenthal, youthful broker who was kidnaped Aug. 11 and held for $100,000 ransom, returned to his home at Lawrence, Long Island, early today.

Members of the Rosenthal family were reticent about the circumstances of his return and flatly declined to say whether the ransom had been paid or not. Rosenthal appeared to have suffered no ill effects from his experience.

It was declared that members of the family had published in the "agony column" of a morning paper for several days past that they were ready to settle with the kidnapers. This was the highlight of the $1,000,000 from his father's estate when he is 31 years old.

Defies Nye Campaign Committee During Investigation

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Miss Ada L. Burroughs, secretary to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and his chief lieutenant in his 1923 campaign to win the democratic south for Hoover, defied the Nye campaign fund committee today for the second time.

Miss Burroughs, a middle-aged woman, challenged the right of the committee to continue its inquiry into Cannon's banking accounts.

She based her defiance on the same reasons given last spring when she refused to answer any questions.

When summoned to the witness stand she asked permission to read a prepared statement and it was granted.

"Referring to subpoena for my appearance today to testify before this committee under the terms of senate resolution 403, I beg, with all due respect, to refer the committee to a protest heretofore filed by me with this committee on May 7, 1931, and I hereby adopt said protest for the purposes of this hearing," Miss Burroughs declared.

However, in further defiance to the committee and its subpoena, I beg to state that none of the books, accounts, checks, or other documents, called for by the committee's subpoena are now in my possession.

"All the books, accounts, records, etc., which were in my possession as treasurer of the headquarters committee anti-Smith democrats were retained in my possession for the statutory period of two years from the time of the receipt of all money by said committee, and were thereafter turned over to and delivered to James Cannon, Jr., and I have no knowledge as to their present whereabouts."

IOWAN ADMITS STORE ROBBERY

CLINTON, Ia.—(INS)—Robert Wucherpfennig, 19, today awaits sentence on a charge of robbery with aggravation, to which he Thursday entered a plea of guilty.

Wucherpfennig, with Fred Scudder, 23, are said to have signed written confessions to robbery last Saturday midnight of the W. W. Parr store on highway No. 55 near here.

Search of Wucherpfennig's room was said to have revealed three small revolvers used in the hold-up and a sawed-off shotgun. Keys taken from a customer at the store were recovered, according to police. Scudder chose to stand trial.

'GHOST' GANG LEADER SOUGHT

Believe Man Supposed To Be Dead Kidnaped Rich Gambler

CHICAGO—(INS)—A gangster generally believed to have been slain 18 months ago was sought today as the leader of the gang which kept John J. Lynch, wealthy gambler, captive for a week. He was Leo Mongoven, an old "Bugs" Moran, and was reported to have been seen near Kankakee shortly before Lynch was released there yesterday morning.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, received this tip last night after returning from interviewing the Lynch family at Lake Geneva, Wis. Mongoven was believed to have carried the ransom exacted for the turfman's release.

Roche had already heard that an East St. Louis gang, with whom Mongoven was in close contact, had done the kidnaping.

Several Buildings Are Wrecked By Wind Storm

Clear Lake Vicinity Suffers $100,000 In Damages

Following a winding, "S" shaped course, a tornado late Thursday afternoon swept through Bloomington township causing thousands of dollars of damage to buildings, crops and other property.

The most serious destruction and loss occurred at the Newt McConaha, Allen Reed, J. C. Balmos, Henry Windman and Tony Ostendorf farms, none of which are far from Spangler's Chapel. Telephone lines were torn down and wires made traffic difficult in many places.

Giant trees were twisted and torn as though they were broom straws while buildings were not only totally wrecked but carried hundreds of feet and scattered through fields.

No personal injuries were reported at noon today but the Arthur VanBochove family, tenants at the McConaha farm, narrowly escaped death when a 2x4, a part of an out building of the barn, crashed through the dining room window and into the room where the four members of the family were.

McConaha Buildings Wrecked
The most serious destruction occurred at the McConaha farm. A large barn, granary, brooder house, machine shed and old cow shed were totally destroyed. The corn crib was turned about on its foundations and many windows in the house were broken by flying debris. Over 300 chickens are missing or killed and a beautiful orchard was uprooted.

One of the most freakish tricks played by the twister occurred when a horse belonging to VanBochove was lifted by the wind and carried a distance of some 200 feet with little or no injury to the horse.

The VanBochove farm is a scene of desolation. Debris is scattered as far as a hundred yards across the road from the house and how the wrecked trees, flying timbers, sections of roof and other debris managed to sail over or past the house without destroying that structure or two large elms beside the house, is one of unusual features of the storm. A large stack of wheat shocks was distributed for hundreds of feet in every direction, much of the grain and straw finding its way into the house through the broken windows.

CHICAGO JURY ATTACKS OWN PROBE METHOD

Special Grand Juries Are Uneconomic They Assert

CHICAGO—(INS)—The special grand jury which highly commended Chicago's police department after an eight months' investigation today denounced its own period of probing.

In reporting to the chief justice of the criminal court, the jury wrote:

"The recommendation is that in the future no special grand juries be appointed to investigate something of the nature of the present case. We are convinced from our own experience that a special grand jury for the purpose of making an investigation is uneconomic, unscientific, archaic and utterly futile."

In practice, 23 men of various and diverse walks of life are called together to investigate something of which they have no knowledge whatever. They bring to the task no special training and are possessed of few, if any, of the qualifications that are requisite for success in their undertaking."

The jurors found that the Chicago police are outstanding for honesty, efficiency and freedom from graft.

Police Commissioner John H. Alcock's fourteen months at the head of the department has produced a highly creditable record in combating crime, the report said. About 75 percent of all murder and manslaughter cases in that time have been cleared through the arrest or death of the guilty.

Whatever minor graft or corruption exists is directly traceable to the prohibition law, the 7494 disclosed. One of the jury's chief duties was to run down reports of graft and collusion with crime on the part of police.

PLANE DIVES IN OCEAN, ONE DIES

12 Others Narrowly Escape Death as Ship Falls

GLOUCESTER, Mass.—(INS)—Fog was blamed today for the crash into the sea here late Thursday of a Pan-American Airways amphibian plane. One person was drowned, while 12 others narrowly escaped death.

Survivors said the plane went into a nose dive when the pilot attempted to drop under a fog bank. The ship dropped into the sea, the passengers clinging to a wing that extended out of the water.

W. L. Elmore, the pilot, saved the lives of the eleven by setting of the emergency life boat of the plane. With A. W. Eston, radio operator, Elmore then broke windows in the plane and assisted the passengers onto the wing and later into the rubber life raft.

Passengers aided, taking turn, in blowing air in the life boat. They drifted for almost two hours in the fog before they were rescued.

The missing man was Edward Barnwell, 70, who boarded the plane at Halifax. Coast Guard boats searched today for his body.

The life boat was sinking when it was sighted by a fishing boat and all the passengers except two of the women were in the water. The passengers highly praised Elmore, who dived five times to reach the cabin of the plane and search for the package containing the emergency boat.

Three Movie Houses Are Bombed in Chicago

CHICAGO—(INS)—Joseph Kremer, 40, steward of the motion picture operator's union, was arrested today as the state's attorney's police hunted terrorists who this morning bombed three motion picture houses.

Kremer denied any knowledge of the bombing, which police believed resulted from the disagreement between about 100 neighboring theater owners and the operator's union.

found in his car when arrested Thursday. They were addressed to Mrs. Bessie G. Stone, Olean, N. Y.; Miss Madge Gillikin, New Bern, N. C.; Mrs. Edith D. Simpson, Detroit, and Miss Virginia D. Dell, Hagers-town, Md. A fifth letter, unsealed, was to a matrimonial agency in Detroit.

Meanwhile, search for Mrs. Eichenauer and her children continued. They have not been seen since June 28. Investigation of her disappearance was begun only last Saturday, when Pierson was found moving furniture from her home. It was revealed that Mrs. Eichenauer corresponded to a mail-order company, and that she was a "goat king," proposing marriage, was declared by him to be a forger. Pierce's letters and more from an Idaho farmer led officers to speculate on the possibility jealousy may have led to her slaying.

Almost an entire trousseau, as well as garments of the children, Greta, Harry and Audrey, were covered by officers beneath a pile of rubbish. Authorities immediately started digging about the garage in the belief that the bodies of the Eichenauers, now believed dead, may be buried there.

After admitting the clothes had been owned by the missing widow and the youngsters, according to police, Pierson lapsed into a sullen silence. He would not explain how the garments came to be under the rubbish. He again refused to reveal the Eichenauers' whereabouts.

A new warrant accusing Pierson of kidnaping was secured yesterday by Park Ridge authorities. It was forwarded to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson with a request for extradition papers.

Among Pierson's effects West Virginia authorities found a letter from the "New Home club," operated by Mrs. Zola R. Lee, Box 202, Quincy, Ill. The letter touched on women who presumably were friends of Pierson's. Also found were about 20 photographs of different women.

LOUIS H. COOK IS CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR

Iowan Makes Formal
Announcement of Candidacy

DES MOINES, Ia.—(INS)—Louis H. Cook, of Des Moines, a member of the state board of assessment and review and formerly campaign manager for United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart, today formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as senator.

Cook's formal announcement today followed an admission last week to newspapermen that rumors to the effect that he was to be a candidate for the nomination were true.

He will seek the nomination in opposition to Senator Brookhart who is now campaigning in the state for re-election.

The Des Moines man indicated this morning that he will oppose Senator Brookhart on an issue of cooperation within the Iowa delegation to congress as well as of the question of farm organization.

"I believe that it is time that Iowa was represented in Washington by a delegation which will support as a unit for a sane and constructive economic program," Cook declared.

The new candidate rapped Brookhart, declaring that during the ten years the senator has held office, he has not "been able to present one important proposition to the United States senate which has been seriously considered by that body for enactment into law."

Baker Crowd at City Park, Mt. Pleasant Thousands of Farmers Assemble For One Farm Organization

The farm problem will soon be settled, if the keen interest shown by thousands of farmers materializes, into the formation of the "one farm organization."

No one as yet has been able to destroy Mr. Baker's plan, known as the "Baker Farm Plan," in which he advocates one farm organization for all farmers of all states, with the start being made by Iowa farmers who generally lead in progressive things with out neighboring Illinois friends.

The Baker plan means no government control, no Wall Street domination by farmers only; no one but farmers can join, exactly as labor assemblies and unions are controlled. It's the coming thing in America and hundreds of thousands of farmers are looking to Mr. Baker to start it, even to the starting of a Farm Bank.

Visitors at the Baker hospital Thursday included Dr. Mary A. Bosch, Huntington, W. Va., Adeline Olson, Dietze, D. C., De Smet, S. D., Minnie C. Felsing, D. C., Howard, S. D., Alma Quillen, Portsmouth, O., and Waletta Young, Portsmouth, O.

DARE :: :: INTERPRETS the MODE

Diagonal lines and smart tailoring distinguish this beige wool crepe, with its green plique blouse (Courtesy of Lucile Paray, Paris).

New York—If you would a-sporting go, do it in woollens, my dahlings, and best of all, in knitted woollens! We had quite a few open weave knitted mesh things for summer, but they couldn't hold a candle to the brilliant and snap of knitted Autumn sportswear.

You know, summer colors are necessarily dulled down to avoid offending the eye and shocking the sensibilities of those who like to drift through hot weather—but the eye had better open wide and the sensibilities stiffen themselves to appreciate the gay, flamboyant, piquant coloring of cooler-weather sportswear.

Just How Bright Shall We Be?
WELL—L-L-L-L-L, if you follow the advice of the Paris couturiers, you'll have knit sports clothes so red that a flame seems dim in comparison, so vivid, emerald green that the fairway looks dull and dingy, so brilliantly, unashamedly blue that the sky looks white, besides it! It isn't the color that counts, but the brilliance of that color, you see.

The Happy Housewife's Hints
SISTER DIONNE has been having so much fun outdoors with the Lovebug and her friends out in the open that she wrote me just a snatch this week! She said: "And now, before cold weather catches us all unawares and gives up red and snuffy noses, I took my spring coat, and the baby's hand-cleaned and mine dyed, and re-lined both of them, having bought a little extra material just for that. It took only a tiny bit extra, too for the Lovebug's coat used up nicely scraps left from mine, that I feared would just be wasted."

THE delightful little wool crepe bluge suit from Lucile Paray that I illustrate today has a different way of using the so-important diagonal line! It cuts both sides of the smart little jacket on the slant, and then follows this same line with the side panels incrustated into the skirt. Incidentally, these incrustated panels widen out subtly at the hem to give the desired fullness. The jacket has plain sleeves, narrow lapels, tiny pockets, and invested tucks in back to nip the jacket in the least bit!

And the sleeves plain blouse is green, my dears, and crosses over and buttons in a most intriguing way.

NATURALLY you'll have to have a suit for this Autumn and it's clever to get one with unusual lines or odd color combinations—and doubly clever to see that YOUR suit has both!

Au revoir!

CHAPTER XXXXII
An Unconditional Yes

JUST as a wild animal in pain seeks its lair, Beth made straight for her room. It wasn't much, but she could be alone there. She did not dare think of what she had done, that monstrous, impossible thing she had asked of Phillip Dane. She would not think of it, and yet, he had kissed her. She could remember the feel of his mouth on hers. She felt hot all over, she felt cold. She was proud, she was ashamed. She reached her room and sat on the bed staring at the wall before her.

Slowly her eyes focused on a calendar hanging there. Something about the date was familiar—October 4—why, it was the day to open the letter! Just a year ago she had put it in its first hiding place in the cupboard in that dingy little flat. And now, when she needed something to take her mind away, it was there, ready to be opened.

She took it out of her bag. It was soiled from handling and there was a smudge over the pen-and-ink notation of the date, "October 4."

TO BE OPENED ONE YEAR FROM TODAY.

The year was up. Beth tore the flap, her heart beginning to beat faster. Inside was first a note, in her Aunt Marie's angular handwriting.

Aunt Marie's Letter:
"My dear niece—By the time you open this you will have had the clothes I sent you for a year. I have great faith in clothes, my dear—

—they can accomplish a great deal for you. It is a whim of mine—I am darning now and know it—to send you this in this way. I have an idea that people who have just a year in which to do something accomplish more because of the limitations set on their actions. So I am assuming that the year that will pass before you receive this will have brought changes to you. I have asked Captain Grantland, my lover, to date the inclosure with the date of the day he calls on you. Perhaps you will not need it; perhaps it will mean a great deal to you. In whatever circumstances it is finally received I hope you will accept it with my love—Your Aunt Marie."

There was another envelope within and Beth took this out, opened it and found a long blue slip of paper. It was a bank draft on a New York bank for a thousand dollars. It was faithfully made out in a different handwriting from her aunt's, to Beth's order, and dated October 4 for the present year.

Beth stared at it through her tears. She felt somehow that this sum had really represented all her aunt's worldly possession. It was not a great sum, Beth knew the limitations of a thousand dollars, but suddenly she thought bitterly of the changes it might have meant if she had received it sooner. She could have sent her mother away without borrowing money. She could have given up her position with Phil before she became so fast a prisoner to her love for him that she cherished even her chains.

"Too late," Beth thought, and she bent her head in a fit of weeping. Then she began to think faster, with part of it she could redeem the balance of her loan, there was $375 left of that, for Beth had contented herself with making only the five-dollar weekly payments. The rest she could give her mother to invest in the millinery business with Mrs. Ellis. Then she would be free, she could do what she liked. She would go away, work somewhere else, perhaps go out to Omaha, where Ned and Frances had settled.

Escape!
The plan appealed to Beth. She could not wait to put it into execution. She would go to the office and hand her resignation in to Phil. He would probably be out to lunch by this time, she need not even see him. Then she would ask Arnold to go to the bank to identify her. She would write Frances, wind up her little affairs in the city—why, she might even leave for Omaha this very night!

Fired by this prospect of escape, wild to run away from this mess, she had made of her life, to start over again, she jammed on her hat, thrust the check in her bag and made for the street. There was a knock on Phil's door, a discreet knock. "Still holding Beth, Phillip stepped to it and said without opening it, 'I can't be disturbed now—I'm in conference.'"

"Important business?" it was Arnold's voice.
"Very—I'll tell you the results in a minute." Then, looking down at the girl who rested in his arms, "What is the answer, Beth?"
"I suppose," said Beth, smiling through happy tears, "that the answer is an unconditional yes."

CHAPTER XXXXII
An Unconditional Yes

JUST as a wild animal in pain seeks its lair, Beth made straight for her room. It wasn't much, but she could be alone there. She did not dare think of what she had done, that monstrous, impossible thing she had asked of Phillip Dane. She would not think of it, and yet, he had kissed her. She could remember the feel of his mouth on hers. She felt hot all over, she felt cold. She was proud, she was ashamed. She reached her room and sat on the bed staring at the wall before her.

Slowly her eyes focused on a calendar hanging there. Something about the date was familiar—October 4—why, it was the day to open the letter! Just a year ago she had put it in its first hiding place in the cupboard in that dingy little flat. And now, when she needed something to take her mind away, it was there, ready to be opened.

She took it out of her bag. It was soiled from handling and there was a smudge over the pen-and-ink notation of the date, "October 4."

TO BE OPENED ONE YEAR FROM TODAY.

The year was up. Beth tore the flap, her heart beginning to beat faster. Inside was first a note, in her Aunt Marie's angular handwriting.

Aunt Marie's Letter:
"My dear niece—By the time you open this you will have had the clothes I sent you for a year. I have great faith in clothes, my dear—

—they can accomplish a great deal for you. It is a whim of mine—I am darning now and know it—to send you this in this way. I have an idea that people who have just a year in which to do something accomplish more because of the limitations set on their actions. So I am assuming that the year that will pass before you receive this will have brought changes to you. I have asked Captain Grantland, my lover, to date the inclosure with the date of the day he calls on you. Perhaps you will not need it; perhaps it will mean a great deal to you. In whatever circumstances it is finally received I hope you will accept it with my love—Your Aunt Marie."

There was another envelope within and Beth took this out, opened it and found a long blue slip of paper. It was a bank draft on a New York bank for a thousand dollars. It was faithfully made out in a different handwriting from her aunt's, to Beth's order, and dated October 4 for the present year.

Beth stared at it through her tears. She felt somehow that this sum had really represented all her aunt's worldly possession. It was not a great sum, Beth knew the limitations of a thousand dollars, but suddenly she thought bitterly of the changes it might have meant if she had received it sooner. She could have sent her mother away without

The Women Object

Whatever else may be said for this country, there is seldom any monotony. Just a week ago, the women of the country were waiting their congressmen in protest against the use of female prohibition agents.

Now they are protesting because Prohibition Director Woodcock has announced that no women are to be employed in gathering evidence of liquor law violations. The business and professional women's council of Maryland calls Woodcock's order "sex discrimination."

Perhaps it is "sex discrimination" and we have a feeling, somehow, that it is a very proper "sex discrimination." Surely it is disgusting to think of Uncle Sam sending his nieces into bootleg dives to purchase AND DRINK moonshine liquor.

If this work has to be done at all, it would seem that we might spare ourselves the spectacle of young girls and women engaging in the work.

There can be no question that the right minded people of the United States want temperance, but it is hard to believe that these same right minded and law-abiding citizens want temperance at the price of our womanhood.

What is there about the enforcement of the prohibitory laws that seems to create a condition of mind among zealots that will sanction anything? There has probably never before been a law on the statute books which has been enforced by such devious and questionable methods.

Medical Fallacies

THE POWER OF ORGANIZED MEDICINE

In yesterday's article organized medicine was described as a huge monopoly endeavoring to control all activities of the healing art in favor of "regular" or orthodox medicine. Specific instances were mentioned to show that organized medicine would not hesitate at the use of unfair methods in order to dominate all masters where health is concerned and to stifle all competition.

It was shown, too, how organized medicine has invaded practically every department of our government whether national, state, county or city. Often the workings of the medical trust are so gradual when it comes to assuming power to which it is not justly entitled that a strong hold is obtained in our government, which is not realized by the public until orthodox medicine is firmly established when it is too late to prevent it. However, the people are awakening to the insidious attempt at domination in all matters of health by organized medicine, and are beginning to demand more zealous methods. Besides only thirty percent of the people favor Allopathic medicine.

In regard to medical doctors themselves, more than half the doctors in this country are not members of the American Medical Association. And among those that are there is a growing tendency to revolt against the domination of organized medicine. And ever increasing number of physicians are realizing the medical tyranny of their organization represents a health education are no longer content to have any particular method or system of medicine forced on them. There is a growing tendency to revolt against the domination of organized medicine. And ever increasing number of physicians are realizing the medical tyranny of their organization represents a health education are no longer content to have any particular method or system of medicine forced on them. There is a growing tendency to revolt against the domination of organized medicine. And ever increasing number of physicians are realizing the medical tyranny of their organization represents a health education are no longer content to have any particular method or system of medicine forced on them.

Eminent members of the A. M. A. have also made their choice bravely in the face of that same dogmatism, to champion humanitarianism, to champion the common sense and to denounce the fallacies upon which modern regular medicine is based. Also of late physicians have testified that other M. D.'s have erred, which, a few years ago, was unheard of. Some of these instances have gained national prominence. Previously the physicians, instead of testifying for the best interest of the victim, who was in the right would adhere to the time honored custom that it was better to keep silent than give an unfavorable answer. Today the A. M. A. is increasing its efforts to the best interest of the victim, who was in the right would adhere to the time honored custom that it was better to keep silent than give an unfavorable answer. Today the A. M. A. is increasing its efforts to the best interest of the victim, who was in the right would adhere to the time honored custom that it was better to keep silent than give an unfavorable answer.

The hospitals throughout the country are firmly in the grasp of the American Medical Association and through them the association is able to enforce many of its arbitrary rulings on the doctors who are members as well as many others. The A. M. A. has ruled that no hospital shall shelter any person treated by other means than regular medicine and orthodox surgery. There is a growing protest slowly gathering volume from all States the Union on behalf of the drugless healers thus handicapped in their practice by being forbidden enter hospitals even those supported by taxpayers' money. Independent newspapers in various parts of the country are taking up a fight and they reflect a widespread public resentment against this condition. In one state, Oklahoma, a patient may have the doctor of his choice attend him while in a hospital, even if that doctor be one who practices drugless healing and one not recognized by the A. M. A. However, it is only recently that drugless doctors have had this recognition. No doubt other states will follow the example of Oklahoma.

Millions of dollars have been spent in the name of medical science furthering the doctrines of organized medicine. The schools have been used for medical propaganda and for the kind of "health" education which would promote the use of black and white medicine. The public hasn't the slightest idea of the powerful organization which has been built up by the medical trust. If a physician thinks along the lines of black and white medicine, he is not in accord with the teachings of the Medical Union he is at once expelled and is branded as a quack and everything in the way of black and white medicine is heaped upon him. But there is a growing number of medical men who have the courage to express ideas in which they have the belief of humanity at heart instead of the best interests of the medical trust. They realize that freedom of thought and action within rational bounds must be demanded by all. The public should know those who are striving to help them. Keep medical interlopers out of our public schools. The public schools are for purposes of education not medical propaganda. Medical propaganda should be kept out of schools and colleges. The power at present of the medical trust is a great menace to the public and the sooner it is realized the sooner the public will end the control of medical tyranny. At present every conceivable form of advertising and propaganda is being employed to force the use of health-destroying, disease-producing, vaccines and serums on the public. The government should not mix public education with any kind of public "health" education in our schools because organized medicine would control the health activities and could use such as a means of propaganda favoring the methods of organized medicine.

WHITEFOOT THE WOOD MOUSE, IS LAUGHED AT

There's nothing makes one feel so small as laughter; nothing else at all.

Whitefoot, the Wood Mouse, feels very small anyway. He is small. He is one of the very smallest of all the little people in the Green Forest. That is why he is so timid. But now he felt smaller than ever. Yes, sir, he felt smaller than ever. And all because he was being laughed at. Friends and enemies alike were laughing at him. Wherever he went he heard their laughter. You see, Timmy the Flying Squirrel, one of Whitefoot's best friends, had been able to keep the joke Whitefoot had told him of how he had frightened Buster Bear and made him run. He had meant to keep it, but somehow it had slipped out and once Buster Bear had laughed all through the Green Forest and over the Green Meadows until every one had heard it.

And every one took it exactly as Timmy had taken it. That is, no one saw it as a joke on Buster Bear for the simple reason that no one believed that Whitefoot had scared Buster Bear at all. But they did believe that Whitefoot believed that he had, and to them that was a real joke. It was too funny that timid, tiny Whitefoot should actually believe that he had made Buster Bear run. It was the best joke of the season. They teased him about it. The first Whitefoot grew very angry whenever one of his neighbors would poke him about it. He would insist that was so, and this made it all the funnier to everybody but Whitefoot himself. He felt that everything was all wrong. It should be Buster Bear who was being laughed at and not himself. It got so that he never showed himself when he could help it, not even when he was used to go to the German with the idea of feeding consumptive patients an exclusive meat diet, mostly uncooked. It is said that the enterprise failed within six months. It is known that meat decomposes very rapidly in the warm digestive tract with the formation of poisonous acid wastes which are reabsorbed into the circulation as dangerous poisons. This poison is claimed to be one of the chief sources of cancer, and tuberculosis. Numerous post mortem examinations have shown that as high as 86 percent of all patients suffering from tuberculosis also have disease of the kidneys in an advanced form. And meat eating is supposed to be responsible for Bright's disease and other kidney disorders.

"In the diet of fruit, nuts and vegetables, suffers from cancer have the means on their own hands of largely if not entirely, ridding themselves of the pain accompanying this terrible disease. This I have proved again and again in my own experience, and to me in the treatment of this disease a brighter chapter has opened since I knew the value of such a diet," George Black, M. D.

Because every story has two sides to it, let us see what can be found to take the stand in favor of meat so that we may judge better regarding this question. A case comes to mind of a little tubercular child who was given up as hopeless. This child was taken to the slaughterhouse and given warm fresh blood to drink every day. So far as could be observed the child got well. The child's physical appearance was normal after this treatment.

Another case is that of an old lady who lived the last ten years of her life upon the juice of Beef steak, the steak being placed in a dish of fruit jar with a piece of butter, the jar then being placed in a dish of hot water and left until the juice was extracted.

From a very reliable source comes the information that after testing out the use of meat for twenty years on thousands of cases it has been found that the bad effects of meat in and upon the human body are offset by the benefits derived therefrom. (If) used properly. Therein lies the point in question. Undoubtedly, like many other things, meat must be used properly in order to get good results instead of bad. To those who desire meat it must be stated that the body must have the ability to dispose of the waste fibers as soon after eating as possible. This of course is best accomplished by a plentiful supply of raw and cooked vegetables eaten with the meat. There are many things and many articles used every day which would turn out to be

I notice in most all of the papers that the sole system was the main cause for the downfall of the Labor Government of England and the unemployed in that country won't work as long as that sole system lasts. Now, in this country, we don't have a sole system but we have millions unemployed and our president has just appointed a committee of 60 to keep the unemployed from freezing and starving this winter because of a "dole" system, under another name.

Now get this. We learn from government statistics that we have a group of 504 men in the United States who receive an annual income rising to the enormous total of twelve hundred million dollars. This is more than our total annual production of wheat, corn, cotton and potatoes, the product of the labor of not less than 30 million of our population. In this country special privilege comes to ride the people into poverty.

Get this—24 billions drained from the pockets of the people into the hands of millionaires in 1929. If operated by government for service in place of profit, would leave a surplus of 11 billions after paying 13 billion in taxes.

What is the most important, national security and prosperity, or

"MEAT EATING"

Meat was supposed to be especially beneficial in the treatment of consumption. An institution was set up for the use of meat by a German with the idea of feeding consumptive patients an exclusive meat diet, mostly uncooked. It is said that the enterprise failed within six months. It is known that meat decomposes very rapidly in the warm digestive tract with the formation of poisonous acid wastes which are reabsorbed into the circulation as dangerous poisons. Disagrees With Miss Potter

Recently, Miss Ruth Potter of Brooklyn, N. Y., offered the following sentence: "The president of the gas company feels differently about this."

The correspondent wrote, "Differently" should be changed to "different." "Differently" is a predicate adjective after the copulative verb "feels."

Now Miss Eveline Williams of Sandpoint, Idaho, writes: "I do not agree with Miss Potter in her criticism that 'differently' should be changed to 'different,' because the latter is a predicate adjective after the copulative verb 'feels.'"

The verb "feels" has various meanings and, in the sentence under discussion, I feel that the meaning of the verb is modified by "differently" and that "differently" substituted, would fall to do so. I hope to read your discussion of this matter in "The Right Word" at an early date.

"The Right Word" agrees with Miss Potter. Of course the verb "feel" has more than one meaning. I can feel the top of my desk. If I do, and if someone else also feels the top of my desk, I might feel it differently from the way my companion does. On the other hand, today, I feel bad; I feel strong; I feel happy; I feel hot; I feel tired; I feel different from the way you or someone else feels. Maybe Miss Potter would like to reply to Miss Williams.

No newspaper can fool the people any great length of time when in commenting upon any public question it plays both sides so that the reader can no more tell which side it is on than he can fly upside down.

No newspaper can bamboozle its readers like that and get away with it in the long run.

To be successful a newspaper must have a positive personality, not a milk and water one.

It must be truthful and not misrepresent public questions in order to gain its end.

No newspaper can be eternally successful that is run exclusively to make the cash register ring and to gain political prestige.

The good of the community must be considered at every turn of the road and always first.

That is the kind of newspaper that gains the people's confidence and holds it. That is the kind of a newspaper the people want and respect.

No newspaper whose editor is narrow between the eyes and works under cover can present an attractive personality to its readers. They soon find him out and when they do he loses their confidence.—Arkansas City, Kas., Tribune.

EDUCATION IN RETURN FOR VEGETABLES

(A West Virginia college announces that farm produce will be accepted in payment of students' tuition the coming year.—News item.)

Letter From a Boy's Father to the College President

Dear Sir:— I am desirous of sending my boy Zeke to college this autumn and, having read about your special offer, I wish to ascertain what it will cost me to fill him with learning for the coming year. I am in a position to pay for his education in corn, oats, hay, potatoes or apples, and would appreciate an early reply.

Emuel B. Zithersby.

THE PRESIDENT REPLIES

Dear Mr. Zithersby:— Since the faculty offer was made public we have accepted so many potatoes for tuition that we will have them on our hands for years—the potatoes, I mean. Consequently we are compelled to refuse potatoes in payment of tuition for the present. We are also pretty well fixed with apples, but I think we could educate your son for the freshman year for 500 ears of corn, three loads of hay and fifty bushels of oats. This offer is made in the assumption the boy will not be hard to educate.

Very truly yours, Alonzo B. Sterkes, Pres.

THE FATHER AGREES

Dear Sir:— Your proposition with regard to tuition is acceptable to me on the whole, although I think you are hornswooling me out of an extra load of hay, taking into consideration that Zeke is a smart boy and will be easy to educate. He hates examination, however, and if you would take a chance and admit him without the usual tests I would be willing to throw in six crates of eggs and a Thanksgiving turkey.

Hopefully yours, Lemuel B. Zithersby.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Mr. Zithersby:— So many parents have sent me Thanksgiving turkeys that I am compelled to refuse further offerings, but everything will be okay if you will send me the equivalent in nuts, celery, cranberry sauce and mince pie. Sincerely, Alonzo B. Sterkes.

P. S.—Couldn't you make it seven crates of eggs?

THE MATTER IS CLOSED

Dear President:— All right. You get seven crates of eggs and the "fixins" mentioned. Zeke will report opening day. Give him the best education you can for the vegetables and produce involved.

Lemuel B. Zithersby.

DEVELOPING OF LINE BIG JOB AT GRINNELL

With Five Vets Back Watt Has Making of Good Backfield

GRINNELL, Ia., (INS)—Developing a strong line from first year men for a group of fast, versatile backs will be the principal task of Lester L. "Fuzz" Watt, head football coach at Grinnell college here, this fall.

Fortunately six or seven good prospects ranging from 175 to 195 pounds will be available among the sophomores squad this season and if they learn rapidly they will probably solve Watt's problem for him in a large measure.

If they do Grinnell will have a strong team and should do much better than last year when the Pioneers finished fourth in the Missouri Valley conference with one victory and two defeats.

Three Vets Back
The only veteran linemen returning to school this fall are Captain Oscar Christensen, center; Richard Murphy, Charles Bilton, and Otto Goltz, all ends. Two reserves from last year's eleven, Virgil Bowler, center, and Paul Edman, an end, will also be available.

But from the 1930 frosh team Watt will receive four men who probably hold the fate of the 1931 eleven. They are Johnny Lake and Mark Trumbull, two 195 pound tackles and Abe Roenbloom and Matt Erwin, both 180 pounds guards.

Three other linemen who will probably see some service this year are also available from the 1931 yearlings. They are Casey Canavan, guard; Dale Faunce, center, and Bob McKee, an end.

Should Watt's eleven suffer from injuries early in the season the Grinnell team will be in a serious predicament since these men are the only linemen who amount to a great deal as football players who will be available this season.

Reserve Problem Serious
The Grinnell squad is never a very large one and the problem of reserves is almost as serious as the problem of finding a good first string.

In the backfield Watt will have very little to worry about. Henry Thomas, Richard Ulrich, De Witt McCreary, Fred Graffund, and Harold Alexander, all letter men are returning to school this fall and will be eligible.

Thomas is a heady quarterback who runs a team in nice shape and will make a good signal-caller for the 1931 Pioneers.

Ulrich, McCreary, and Alexander are halfbacks. Ulrich is a Des Moines boy who played very little high school football but has developed rapidly since entering Grinnell and gave promise last season of some great football this year and in 1932.

Clarence James, a reserve half-back last season, will also be available this year and may come in handy to the Pioneer coach before the end of the season.

Fred Graffund, the other veteran back returning this season, is a fullback and the only experienced candidate for the position this fall.

Grinnell opens their season this year after only two weeks of practice. Under conference rules practice is not permitted prior to Sept. 10.

Since the Coe college game is scheduled for the night of Sept. 25 Watt will have just two weeks in which to round his new men into shape and develop their season.

Following the contest with Coe which will be played here, the Pioneers are scheduled for games on each of the next eight weeks. They will meet States Teachers, Cornell, Central, St. Louis University, Carleton, Washington University, Creighton and Drake in that order.

Four Night Games
The Grinnell team will play four night games this year, the contests with Coe, Central, St. Louis and Carleton. The St. Louis game is scheduled for the Missouri field.

The 1931 schedule:
Sept. 25—Coe College at Grinnell (night).
Oct. 2—State Teachers college at Cedar Falls.
Oct. 10—Cornell college at Mount Vernon.
Oct. 16—Central college at Grinnell (night).

ROBERT "CHIEF" COY
PLAYED 302 HOLES OF GOLF IN ONE DAY—ATTIRED ONLY IN A GYM-SUIT.
Monmouth, Ill., June, 1931

Robert "Chief" Coy already held the marathon golf record when he started out on his 302-hole jaunt, but Coy doesn't wait for someone to come along and break his records—he breaks them himself. Last year he played 261 holes of golf in a single day in Springfield, Ill. This year, playing in his bare feet and using only one club—a mid-iron—throughout, he broke his old record by 41 holes.

Coy started at 3:30 in the morning and finished at 7:50 that evening, having driven a ball over 107,300 yards and walked 61 miles during the day.

Some of the early morning rounds of nine holes were completed in 15 minutes! Outside of a blistered hand and a bad case of sunburn, "Chief" suffered no ill effects. To prove it, on finishing the 302nd hole, he ran a hundred yards in less than 11 seconds. Then he put on a strength demonstration, bending a steel bar with his teeth, tearing a tobacco can in half and driving a 20-penny spike through an inch board with his bare hand.

"Chief" Coy is an all-round athlete, excelling in wrestling, running, jumping and boxing. In March, 1930, he played pocket billiards 120 hours, 17 minutes, without stopping.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of this paper, and enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

Robert "Chief" Coy already held the marathon golf record when he started out on his 302-hole jaunt, but Coy doesn't wait for someone to come along and break his records—he breaks them himself. Last year he played 261 holes of golf in a single day in Springfield, Ill. This year, playing in his bare feet and using only one club—a mid-iron—throughout, he broke his old record by 41 holes.

Coy started at 3:30 in the morning and finished at 7:50 that evening, having driven a ball over 107,300 yards and walked 61 miles during the day.

Some of the early morning rounds of nine holes were completed in 15 minutes! Outside of a blistered hand and a bad case of sunburn, "Chief" suffered no ill effects. To prove it, on finishing the 302nd hole, he ran a hundred yards in less than 11 seconds. Then he put on a strength demonstration, bending a steel bar with his teeth, tearing a tobacco can in half and driving a 20-penny spike through an inch board with his bare hand.

"Chief" Coy is an all-round athlete, excelling in wrestling, running, jumping and boxing. In March, 1930, he played pocket billiards 120 hours, 17 minutes, without stopping.

FIVE CLUBS TO TRAIN ON WEST COAST IN 1932

Robins and Giants to Join Tigers, Cubs and Pirates

By Copeland C. Burg
INS Sports Writer
NEW YORK—While the weary Brooklyn Robins were doing a Sista today, President Frank B. York admitted he is going to take the Dodgers out to California next spring for training.

The Giants will also train on the west coast in 1932, joining the Tigers of Detroit, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs, who drilled there last season.

York has not decided the exact spot where the Robins will get set for the 1932 grind but it will be near some large city, probably Los Angeles. One of the reasons the Dodgers are deserting Florida is that patronage at their spring training games was not satisfactory and a California site near a center of population will be sought by York.

Silent on Rumor
The Robins' president has nothing to say today about a report that Stanley Harris of the Detroit Tigers will succeed Wilbert Robinson as pilot of the Brooklyn club. He would not even admit that Robinson is going to get the gate. According to rumor, Brooklyn has approached Harris with a higher salary than he is getting and offered him a most attractive contract.

This is Harris' third season with Detroit and he has whipped into shape a team with vast possibilities for 1932. It has taken him three years to revamp his club but right now he has an organization with more potential power than any of the second division outfits.

The Tigers continued their upward climb yesterday by turning back the Chicago White Sox 9 to 4 and are now right at the heels of the St. Louis Browns, topping the second division. Vic Sorrell gave the Sox 11 hits but Chicago's errors helped him win.

Ferrell Wins 17th
Wes Ferrell chalked his seventeenth win with nine innings and allowing only four hits as Cleveland routed the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 1. Earl Averill hit his homer No. 28. Dick Coffman, the man who shut out Lefty Grove and the Athletics last Sunday, was charged with the defeat.

Eight runs in the eighth inning gave the Athletics an 11 to 4 advantage over Pittsburgh, after the Bruins had dropped the opening game to the Pirates, 3 to 2. Engle was the Chicago hitting hero, getting two hits in the first game and a perfect record in the finale with a walk, two singles, a double and triple. Spencer licked Sweetland in the first contest, giving Chicago only four safeties, while the Bucs grabbed ten.

With the score tied 5 to 5 in the eighth inning, Phil Whittey stepped up and poked a cracking homer to win the ball game for the Phils over Cincinnati, 6 to 5. Jim Evers got credit for three hits in the final game, giving the Phils a 5 to 4 victory over the Reds.

Coram Claims Bout Will Be Staged in Next Year

Here Is Play Rockne Liked

ONE OF "ROCKS" great backs used to carry the ball on this play. Like all Rockne plays it was good for a touchdown from any part of the field providing every man did his duty and "Rock" would have no other kind. Mollycoddles and pussy-footers, born of luxury and ease were anathema to him.

The above is one of a series of scoring plays which Sol Metzger, football's foremost authority, will analyze in TOUCHDOWN SCENES. This series will begin Monday and will appear daily in The Free Press throughout the football season.

Will Be Denied
This will be vigorously denied on all sides. His intimates will deny it. Gene will deny it. I can almost hear him saying now: "I wonder who led my friend Coram into making such an atrocious blunder?"

Very well. Let it go at that. I only ask you to remember that when Tunney quit the ring the fact was first chronicled in this space. That when he became engaged to a violation of confidence; not the confidence of the principal involved. But nobody knows better than Gene Tunney that I do not violate confidence, and so I am going to be the first to tell you—it is virtually certain that Tunney will be in a prize ring throwing gloves at Herr Max Schmeling, of Germany, for the heavyweight championship of the world before another summer has slipped into history.

So if you choose to laugh this off, laugh it off. Herr Schmeling will be indeed fortunate if he can do the same. For as I recall Tunney inside those ropes, he was a gentleman that hit 'em a straight right hand smash under the heart that left 'em gasping when he said good-bye.

If this was one of those confession stories in which the writer could tell all—I was only a beautiful country girl of sixteen summers when I came to the city and wicked city—I think I could convince you that this is the dead McCoy.

But omitting the clincher, as we must, let us see what matter comes from a common sense standpoint.

To begin with, there are 750,000 reasons why Gene should give it another whirl. He can make $750,000, if not in one fight then in two, and if he won't box again for that sort of money there are 750,000 ex-millionaires scattered around the country who will.

Times have changed so little since the night Tunney chipped the hard rock from down under, otherwise Tom Heeney, into an unlovely sculpture of a beaten man. It is no longer possible to rattle the ticker tape through your fingers every time you want a fleet of new rolly-royces.

Market Hurl Tunney
I don't mean to insinuate that the market crash flattened Gene. It didn't, by a long shot. But it didn't hurt him. Show me a man who had money back in those days that it did do any good.

So Tunney can knock off possibly as much as a million in the next couple of years by returning. Don't forget that there is to be another of those civil cauliflower congresses involving the then heavyweight titleholder at the Chicago world's fair in 1933. The chances are that fight, backed by all the resources Chicago can muster, will bring back the million dollar gate.

And if Gene wins, chances to be champion at the time, much as he might hate it, he would be forced to take the champion's end.

WALKER LEADS FOR TITLE IN "FUTURE BOOK"

Les Conklin Figures Mickey 6 to 1 Shot To Win Crown

By LES KONKLIN
INS Sports Writer
NEW YORK—What mathematical chance have the various heavyweight contenders of winning the world's championship?

Some persons who ought to know what is going on behind the scenes, claim that Mickey Walker has practically been matched for a title bout with Max Schmeling next summer. Therefore the Jerseyman, irrespective of his rating as compared to the other contenders, appears to have the best chance at the moment.

Here's "Future Book"
A "future book" on the chances of the various contenders to win the title, either from Schmeling or his successor, might be made as follows:

Mickey Walker 6 to 1.
Jack Sharkey 8 to 1.
Primo Camera 8 to 1.
Ernie Schaaf 12 to 1.
Charley Retzlaff 12 to 1.
Jack Dempsey 12 to 1.
Tommy Loughran 20 to 1.
Victorio Campolo 25 to 1.
Stanley Pareda 30 to 1.
Steve Hamas 30 to 1.

It should be emphasized that these odds are not based on sheer ability, but also on the prospects a contender has of landing a match with the champion or his successor. If Camera and Schmeling should sign a bona fide contract, for instance, the odds in the Italian's case would be cut from 8 to 1 to something like 2 to 1.

Unknown Has Chance
It may also be pointed out that if Schmeling retains his title for five more years, as many experts predict, half of the contenders named will have passed out of the picture by that time. It is not improbable that a fighter now unknown may be the net champion.

While the writer believes with many other observers that Sharkey would have a far better chance than Walker against Schmeling, the fact is that Mickey is likely to be the teutonic giant's next opponent. Sharkey himself, though he hopes otherwise, will tell you there isn't one chance in ten that he will get another crack at Maxie.

Similarly, Tommy Loughran stands head and shoulders above some others in the list as fighting ability goes, but does not measure up to men like Camera and Retzlaff in box office appeal.

Dempsey Still Draws
Dempsey's name would not even have been considered a week ago, but the gate receipts drawn by the old champion in exhibition bouts on the west coast have proven that he is still the best drawing card in the country.

The Massasoit Mauler has promised to go to the post against a leading contender in New York this winter after he fights his intro shape. If Jack can get past that test, the stage will be set for a "hemiing-Dempsey" bout next summer. Visualizing another million-dollar gate, Joe Jacobs would fall all over himself to sign on the dotted line for Maxie.

As "Cho" once elegantly expressed his viewpoint to this writer: "You know me—I'll sign with whoever will draw the most coccanuts."

WHO WAS SHE?

THIS girl who startled New York by her phenomenal social success?

This Marjorie Pentland, who changed overnight from a shy, retiring, book-loving girl into a social star of poise and charm and delightful humor?

Few knew that she was only a "deb" by proxy, a masquerader, a Cinderella who had to disappear the moment the clock struck and the real Marjorie Pentland returned to take her place in society.

RAINS PROVED CROP BENEFIT

Shortage in Output Of Corn Seen as Drouth Results

Rain of agricultural importance occurred in scattered areas totaling about one-fourth of the state, according to the weekly crop bulletin issued by Charles D. Reed, government meteorologist. Rain fell mostly in the central and southwest counties. No rain fell in about 10 or 12 northeast counties and there has been no appreciable rain in most of these counties for three weeks.

Most of the rain has been sufficient only to moisten the surface and not enough to penetrate the corn roots. In some localities the rain penetrated as much as four inches which greatly improved conditions for plowing. Temperatures averaged about two degrees above normal for the week and were 90 degrees at several stations on some afternoons.

Many Barren Stalks
Iowa will not contribute as much corn to the market as grain this year, but will use a larger percent of the crop than usual for livestock feeding. Examinations of the corn in this area reveals many barren stalks, poorly-filled ears and ears molding from ear worm damage. The corn is denting and ripening rapidly with indications that it will be shallow grained and shrunken in size.

Corn in the north one-third of Iowa is generally dried up as it should normally do about six weeks later. Fodder cutting and silo filling in the drouth stricken area has been pushed rapidly to save as much feed as possible, but it takes twice as many acres as usual to fill a silo.

Truck Crops Aided
Pastures, root crops, garden truck and the few late potatoes that have survived were greatly benefitted by the rains. Flowing has become more active.

Hog cholera outbreaks are becoming more numerous than usual and rapidly approaching an epidemic. Vaccination is being resorted to. Since more than one-fourth of the commercially slaughtered hogs of the United States come from Iowa, the nation's meat supply is threatened. Unless a concerted effort is made to control the disease, the loss might easily reach that of 1913, when two and three-quarter million hogs perished in Iowa. The hog population is now more dense than in 1913.

Devious Language

A careful study of the clause that is said to protect the prisoner's right to a court hearing, shows that a court hearing is not guaranteed at all.

This part of the bill is worded as follows:

Section 8. "That persons sent to St. Elizabeth's Hospital or other institutions, as provided by this Act, under sections 3 and 4 hereof, shall remain under care and treatment until discharged, as herein provided, unless a demand be made and presented to the court by a relative or friend in behalf of such alleged insane person, or by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, or by the alleged insane person for a trial to determine his mental capacity or incapacity, or the court may, on his own motion, issue an order fixing a date for trial.

"Provided that in no case shall a jury be called or used for such trial, except upon the request of the party, his guardian, relatives or friends."

That is, the prisoner remains under care and treatment until discharged unless a demand is made for a hearing. And if a demand is made for a hearing, then what?

A straight-laced interpretation of the law indicates that he does not get the hearing. In other words, the alleged insane prisoner is guaranteed the right to demand a trial before a court of law, but it is not guaranteed that he will get the trial.

Psychiatrist System in Massachusetts

In Massachusetts where the psychiatrists have a state law of their own in full operation in which the mail of the prisoners is destroyed and an alleged lunatic, who may be nothing more than an unpleasant enemy the medical trust wants to put out of the way, or an unpopular radical, is thus completely marooned and isolated from help from the outside world.

The Massachusetts law has been in operation seven years. It is the thin edge of an entering wedge that may carry such laws to all states. So far psychiatric service in Massachusetts applies only to persons indicted for first degree murder and to those indicted the second time for felonies.

Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, author of the measure, stated at the crime conference in Washington that the law was enacted to stop unethical mental experts from taking employment on either side of a capital case for large fees, and to save the state the cost of trials in many cases, and keep from the jails those needing treatment in hospitals for mental disease.

Those who are inclined to doubt the story told in another article in this issue about the radical who was virtually kidnapped by officers of the law and railroaded into a madhouse and cut off from all outside communication because of his political beliefs, will do well to attend to some facts about our national asylum in Washington, D. C. which we are going to give right now. The source of the following facts is a prominent newspaper man in Washington, D. C.

3 INJUNCTIONS ASKED IN STATE

Unlicensed Doctors Named in Three Petitions

DES MOINES—(Special)—Proceedings have been instituted to enjoin three Iowa residents from practicing medicine without licenses, the attorney general's office announced Wednesday.

A petition was filed against G. B. Groves, Waterloo, osteopath, and Royal Miller of Mason City, assistant Atty. Gen. Gerold O. Blake said. A similar petition was filed at Des Moines Tuesday against W. P. McPheeters of Des Moines.

An application for an injunction to prevent Dr. W. P. McPheeters, Des Moines, physician, from practicing without a license was filed in district court Tuesday by Atty. Gen. John Fletcher.

The attorney general states in his petition that the action was brought at the request of the state department of health.

Majestic Queen of the Air Being Made Ready for Maiden Flight at Akron

Angry Mob Storms Courthouse as Lovers' Lane Killers Are Sentenced

While a mob of 10,000, bent on lynching, stormed outside the courthouse at Ann Arbor, Mich., the wheels of justice moved swiftly within, and one hour and a half after they'd confessed to the brutal slaying and burning of two couples on road near Ypsilanti, Frank Oliver, Fred Smith and David Blackstone (inset) were convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. Above trio are leaving courthouse under guard.

Ultra Modern

Last word in feminine wearing apparel was displayed at gigantic style show in Chicago the other day. Most unusual of the exhibits, paraded before the hundreds of spectators by lovely mannequins, was this "Bridal Pajama," which if Dame Fashion has her way, may displace the age old wedding gown.

House Parks on Auto During Twister

More than a dozen persons were injured and 20 cottages destroyed when a miniature twister hit the summer resort district in Lorain, O., the other day. One of the queer pranks of the wind is pictured above. The house, tilting back on its foundation during gale, found this car beneath it when it settled back.

Italy's Fairest

Selected as the most beautiful Italian in recent pageant staged in Milan, Signorina Paola Borbini (above) will represent Italy in the International Beauty Contest which will be held shortly in Budapest, Hungary.

Fog Blots Out Dismantled Ship Target, Foils Bombers

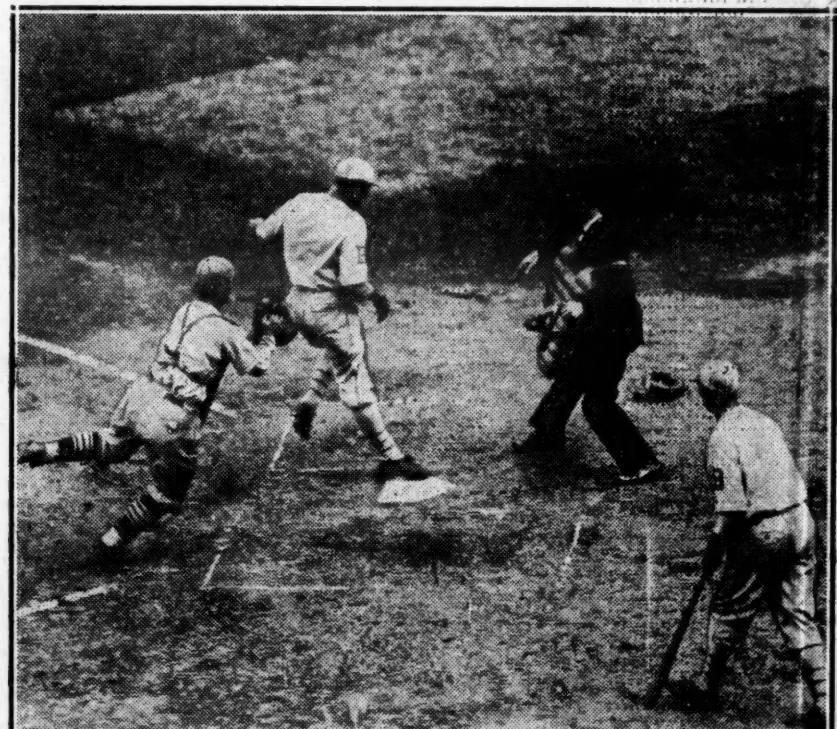

Shortly after this photo was snapped at Langley Field, Va., these giant Army bombing planes, their racks filled with 100-pound bombs (foreground), roared out over the Atlantic Ocean, intent on bombing the dismantled steamer Mt. Shasta, which was wallowing in the swells, several miles at sea. Mother Nature threw a protecting mantle of dense fog over the doomed ship and the airmen, after a fruitless search, were forced to return to the field.

Puts Vanishing American on Canvas

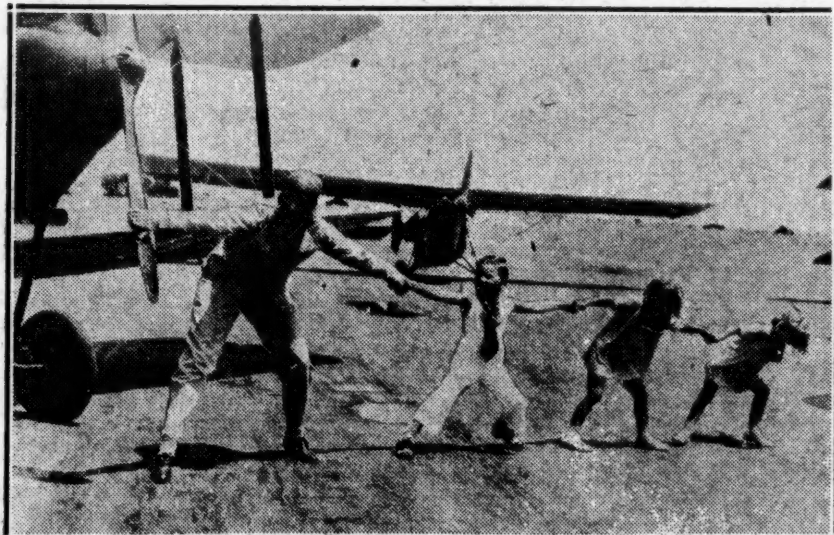

Fainting portraits like this are all in a day's work for Miss Helen Coolidge, daughter of U. S. Senator Marcus Coolidge of Massachusetts. She's pictured as she puts finishing touches to an "Indian Chief" canvas at the Winold Reiss outdoor mountain art school in Glacier National Park, where she's a student.

Here's a Photographic Illusion in a Baseball Action Snap

Take a look at the above photo and try to guess whether the runner is safe or out. You're wrong, he's out. Catcher Wilson of the St. Louis Cardinals tagged Bissonette of Brooklyn as the latter ran past him in attempted steal home in the third game of their series at Ebbets Field, in Brooklyn, but force of his swing carried him around and here's the way the play appeared as Del touched the plate.

Kiddies Help Mother Prepare for National Air Derby

Many hands, it is said, make light work. That's probably why little Tommy, Patsy and Peggy are giving their mother, Mrs. Mildred Morgan, a hand at turning over the prop of her ship at Santa Monica, Cal., where she and other women air aces are preparing for the National Air Derby.
